PROCLAMATION BY STATE HEALTH BOARD

Acting under the responsibility and authority imposed upon it by law, the State Board of Health of Kentucky hereby calls the attention of the fathers and mothers and school authorities in the State to the existence of diphtheria in epidemic form in many sections of the State. Repeated warnings that this would occur have not been heeded. Parents are urged to promptly isolate all children with sore throats until seen by their family physician; teachers are requested to send home from school all children having sore throats, with a note to the parents urging that they be immediately seen by their family physician; physicians are requested to have on hand an adequate supply of antitoxin and to administer at least 10,000 units to each case seen as soon as possible. Antitoxin may be secured at reduced wholesale prices from this Board or from depots established in each county in the State. County Boards of Health are requested to arrange for an adequate supply of antitoxin for use with the indigent at the expense of each county.

Parents with children are urged to confer with their family physicians and have their children tested, and if necessary, immunized against diphtheria so as to avoid this danger. There were 652 children who died in 1921 with this disease. These deaths were wholly unnecessary and ought not to have occurred and would not if proper attention had been paid to the cases. The law requires that no child be released from quarantine until its throat has been found free from germs by a recognized laboratory. Most of these deaths were due to violation of this law and the courts of the State are requested to enforce it.

Given under our hands and the seal of the Board at Louisville this 12th day, of October, 1922.
L. S. McMURTRY, President.
A. T. McCORMACK, Secretary.

DYE BLOUSE OR BABY'S COAT IN DIAMOND DYES

"Diamond Dyes" add years of wear to worn, faded skirts, waists, coats, stockings, sweaters, coverings, hangings, draperies, everything. Every package contains directions so simple any woman can put new, rich, fadeless colors into her worn garments or draperies even if she has never dyed before. Just buy Diamond Dyes—no other kind—then your material will come out right, because Diamond Dyes are guaranteed not to streak, spot, fade or run. Tell your druggist whether the material you wish to dye is wool or silk, or whether it is linen cotton or mixed goods.

P. H. S. COMMERCIAL COURSE VERY POPULAR

The Commercial Department of the Paris High School continues to grow. Miss Elizabeth Rule, a graduate of last June, entered the Commercial Department Monday, October 16, for a complete course in shorthand, bookkeeping and typewriting.

One new Underwood Typewriter was added last week and another will be put in this week, making twelve typewriters in that department. Miss Esteline Fields, the new teacher in this department has a Bachelor of Commerce Degree. She is one of the best-trained commercial teachers in Kentucky and there is no business college offering any better course in this work than the Paris City School.

Misses Anna May Young and Katherine Wallingford, two of the High School's best graduates of last year, are taking the commercial course here at home.

Miss Elmata Hinton, a graduate of Kentucky College of Women, at Danville, Miss Vernita Baldwin, of Randolph-Macon, Lynchburg, Virginia, are other Paris young ladies taking the commercial work in the Paris Schools.

The attention of all Paris people is called to the work of this department. We want you to feel that we are ready and able to take care of your children without any expense to you. We want you to know that it is not necessary to send your children away from home to get commercial training. Some of the best commercial positions in Paris are held by our graduates. Miss Louise Keal, stenographer for the Bourbon Agricultural Bank & Trust Co.; Miss Katherine Willis, stenographer for the J. Simms Wilson Co.; Reed Bishop, bookkeeper for the L. & N. R. R.; Miss Ruby Elder, bookkeeper and stenographer for Dr. Petree; Robert Meglone for the Power Grocery Co. and a large number of others could be named who have had their commercial training in the Paris High School.

We have more calls for commercial-trained students than we can fill. We especially want young men and women who are ambitious to come to the Paris City School and study. We will help you to get a good business preparation and then we help you to get a position. You do not need to have money if you live in the city of Paris for this work is perfectly free for you at the Paris City School. We shall welcome you any time you come.

JUST A LITTLE TRADE-AT-HOME PHILOSOPHY

The people of Paris, like those of practically every other community, have this question placed before them: Shall we buy all the stuff we possibly can of our home merchants, or shall we purchase a lot of it in other places and of stores in distant cities?

In these times goods cost high, and everyone desires to conserve his resources. But in their anxiety to save money, people should not cherish illusions, and should remember that many things that seem attractive at first sight do not prove so on closer scrutiny.

Well-advertised stores in large cities and elsewhere draw trade a long distance. People are induced thereby to go on more or less distant shopping trips to such places. They pay railroad fare, or burn up gasoline and inflict wear and tear on their automobile tires and machinery. They are likely to have several meals en route, and frequently stay over night and pay hotel and garage bills.

All the food they buy costs more than it does on their home tables. They pay car rides, tips, frequently taxi fares, and the often induced to spend money in ways they had not planned for and regret afterward.

Their time has value. If they had bought the same articles at a Paris store, it would have taken but little of their time. These trips consume many spare hours, which could have been used to direct advantage in their homes. Shopping trips of this kind are apt to be wearisome and by no means a pleasure excursion.

When all these incidental costs have been considered, the purchase made from some distant store commonly costs more than the one made at home or nearer home, even allowing the supposition that the price for the article was less than the home store figure. And in the majority of cases it will be found that the same article could be had at home for the same money or perhaps less.

USERS OF ADDING MACHINES

For your convenience we are now carrying a stock of the best adding machine rolls and can supply you with one or a dozen at a time. This is a fine linen bond paper and absolutely lintless.
